S 369 THE IMMANENCE APOLOGETICS OF WALKER PERCY Tuesdays, Aug. 28 – Nov. 6
 Deacon Tracy Jamison 2 Credits 7:00 p.m. – 9:40 p.m.
 Tentative Course Description: Apologetics as a Christian discipline is the intellectual endeavor to defend the Christian faith against those who oppose it, and to attract to it those who do not yet believe it. It is the science of the credibility of the word of God. It explains the believability of the deposit of faith and morals, which can be judged either by reason alone or by reason informed by the grace of faith. The help of grace given to the intellect in judging the credibility of the word of God may be formal or material. Immanence apologetics relates the deposit of faith and morals to the common human predicament and our felt needs for perfective goods and supernatural deliverance. Examples of this experiential approach to apologetics include St. Augustine's Confessions, Karl Rahner's supernatural existential, and Pope Francis' Lumen fidei. Our focus will be on the semiotic essays and existentialist novels of Walker Percy, which continue to be instrumental in the calling many modern castaways into the full communion of the Catholic Church.

The theory and practice of traditional logic helps active participants to develop their critical and analytical abilities and to reason clearly and validly in the pursuit and defense of truth and goodness in all the sciences. The perennial wisdom of Aristotelian logic is compared and contrasted with the computational power of modern symbolic logic in order to appreciate the value of each paradigm and to explore possible points of integration. The realist epistemology advanced by Aristotle is introduced insofar as it entails a theory of linguistic meaning.

PH 206 INTRODUCTION TO ETHICS Tuesdays and Thursdays,
 Deacon Tracy Jamison Aug. 28 – Dec. 13
 3 Credits 8:00 a.m. – 9:15 a.m.
 This course is a systematic introduction to the science of ethics that developed in the context of the Christian faith under the influence of the philosophical works of Plato and Aristotle and was given a definitive expression in the moral philosophy and anthropology of St. Thomas Aquinas. The Scholastic approach to ethics has undergone further refinements over the centuries and has become the normative ethical theory most closely associated with the Catholic intellectual tradition. The moral philosophy of St. Thomas defends the perennial philosophical proposal that there is an objective moral law grounded in human nature and human reason. We will examine this philosophical tradition critically and assess its plausibility and defensibility. We will also acquaint ourselves with the major normative ethical theories that are opposed to natural law theory. The topics that we will cover include the nature of happiness, the nature of the human act, the nature of the good, the nature of moral obligation, the properties of moral law, the nature of conscience, the nature of moral reasoning, and the various virtues and vices.

PH 208 NATURAL THEOLOGY Tuesdays and Thursdays,

 "Ever since the creation of the world His ...divine nature has been understood ... through the things He has made" - Paul to the Romans. This course considers the existence and attributes of God insofar as they can be known by reason. It is particularly beneficial for anyone who plans to study theology. Four main topics are considered. The first is what the human person can know about God by reason alone. The second is how this question has been answered by prominent thinkers throughout history. This topic includes the history of arguments for the existence of God. The third is the attributes of God. The fourth part is a review of what the Church has taught on these questions.

PH 210 ANCIENT PHILOSOPHY Tuesdays and Thursdays,
 Dr. David Foster Aug. 28 – Dec. 13
 3 Credits 8:00 a.m. – 9:15 a.m.

Then the story is told of the origins of Western philosophy from Thales to Socrates, culminating in the astonishing achievements of Plato and Aristotle. The pace shifts as we study philosophy's development in Hellenistic thought including Epicureanism, Stoicism, Skepticism, Neo-Platonism. In the final part we consider the reaction of Jewish and Christian thinkers to Greek philosophy including Philo, Justin Martyr, Origen, Tertullian, and Augustine.

- PH 212 MODERN PHILOSOPHY Tuesdays and Thursdays,
Rev. Anthony Brausch Aug. 28 – Dec. 13
3 Credits 9:20 a.m. – 10:35 a.m.
This course is an overview and analysis of the intellectual development of modern metaphysics and epistemology in the Western tradition from the beginning of the 17th century to the end of the 19th century. Among the permanently influential philosophical theories advanced in the modern era are those of Descartes, Hobbes, Spinoza, Malebranche, Leibniz, Locke, Berkeley, Hume, Reid, Rousseau, Kant, Hegel, Bentham, Mill, and Kierkegaard. These are the theories that have shaped our modern Western culture and its typical mentalities and attitudes. We will endeavor to understand these representative theories and their perennial attractiveness and to appreciate how the systematic implementation of these theories has had enormous consequences for good or evil in the modern world and has significantly determined how people in the West think about human nature, moral law, the Church, the State, and the existence and nature of God.
